UALLAWAY & KEATING, M. C. GALLAWAY, 282 Second street, Memphis, Tenn

TUESDAY, : : : MARCH 7, 1876. WHITTHORNE, of this State, is immortalizing himself as the navy department investigator. He has already secured enough evidence to call for the impeachment of the secretary, who is also now acting secretary of war, but, held a good practice before the numerunlike Clymer, Whitthorne propos- ous courts, and maintained an enviable es to go before the house with reputation with his associates at the bar, a full load, and one that will be more startling than that which is to consign Belknap to a felon's cell. There is the loose way of doing business on the part of paymasters countenanced by Robeson; the winked at robbery of public timber lands by a New York company; the purchase of machinery at an exorbitant price, and its sale, as old position he was defeated by a small iron, at a very low price. All this and more is to be brought to the attention of congress. Of course the zeal of General Whitthorne did not meet with the ap-Whitthorne did not meet with the approval of Robeson, and so he took to throwing obstructions in the way. This claims and the Mexican claims commissort of tactics, however, could not win against the eager Tennessean, who visited the navy department in person the other day and interviewed Mr. Robeson, who grew very angry and "protested against all these impertment inquiries. He had not time to answer them, and would not be pestered by a Confederate congress. Whitthorne rather than sppear as a mendicant. begged him to be calm. He avowed his sympathy for him in his distress, but went on to say that heretofore the committee had treated the escretary with A Cowets, Georgis, man has wheat courtesy. He understood the amenities between cabinet officers and congressmen, and had scrupulcusly followed out the most rigid line of courtery, but (and here the admiral's eyes flashed threateningly) 'I give you warning, Mr. Secreta-'ry, that we are in earnest, and if you attempt any forther blocking of the operations of the committee, I shall call you before the bouse, and have you judged, by the living God!' Mr. Secretary

GEORGE P. ROWELL & Co., of New York, the well known advertising agents, have made arrangements for the erection in the Centennial grounds, Philadelphia, of a large exhibition building, where all the newspapers and periodicals of the United States will be put on file during the Centennial exposition. The building proposed will cost, say six thousand dollars, so that the entire expenditure for all purposes need not exceed fifteen or twenty thousand dollars. The plan corresponds somewhat to the Astor library as to alcoves and shelving. The dimensions of the building will be sixty-six by forty-four feet, the lower part to be occupied as just described, with side floors and overhanging gallery above where desks for correspondents and rooms for retired conversation will be provided. We cordially indorse this movement, and hope it will be seconded by the press of the whole country. If there is any one thing more than another of which the people of the United States have reason to be proud, it is the press -the efficient and trusted guardian of every public interest. Its growth is the ping may be set down for naught. growth of the country, and its prosperity symbolizes that which has attended the gradual approaches of the people from provincialism to the full stature of nationality, and all within one hundred yeam. We trust the exhibit to be made by Mr. Rowell will leave nothing to be desired by the most earnest laborers of and friends of the press of the country.

A LETTER from Mr. Ex. Norton, president of the Memphis and Paducah railroad, to Mr. F. W. Thompson, of Dyersburg, announces the gratifying intelligence that " within the past few days an agreement has been made and signed by over one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the bondholders, and by the Southern railroad association, and by G. W. F. and Ex. Norton in amount over reven hundred thousand dollars. The plan contemplates the completion of the road, and East Indies have found ready buyers at the preferred first-morigage bonds set aside for the purpose; by this arrangement, with the hearty co-operation of ment, with the hearty co-operation of the people along the line will be ample to accomplish this end."

The day Babcock was acquitted Colonel
Dyer said publicly that he had contended against an element which was bound to defeat him at that time. He declined to give any explanation, but the fact that his eyes had just been opened to this element of opposition plant of General Henderson, special counsel for the government. These statements are certainly worthy the attention of congress, and some of the world.

Throughout: Germany has an absolute and pressing need of Deumark and Holland; in order to secure them she can afford to give me that certain William B. Johnson, and atrocious murder on the day of December, 1873, npon the body of Rolling Johnson, late of our county of Shelby, has fled from justice, and is now running at large; Now, therefore, I, James D. STARVED TO DEATH.

Wasington Republican, February 29.1

The Hon, Ell P. Norton Preferring Thought in Decreases.

Yesterday afternoon, Hon. Eti P. Nor-ton died in Providence hospital, after a short illness, in the fifty-sixth year of his age. Mr. Norton was well and favorably known in this city, and his un-looked-for demise cast a gloom over his numerous acquaintance, who, while they knew of his illness, had no expec-tation of its fatal termination. Mr. Norton was born in the city of Mansfield, Illinois, where he attended school and subsequently studied law, which pro-fession he practiced for a short time in the city of his birth. -At an early age he removed to Lexington, Kentucky, and thence, after a brief sojourn, to Cincin-nati, Ohio, where he at once secured and While in Cincinnati he entered politics as a member of the Whig party, and at its downfall he took an active part in the native American or know-nothing party. and when it in turn died, he joined with the Democrats. About 1866 he removed to the city of New York, and there again took part in the political arena, becom-ing the Democratic candidate for conthat time he has been practicing his proglon, but latterly he has been unfortunately impoverished. About tendays ago he met a friend in the street, and explained to him his reduced circumstances, and, after leaving him, retired to his room, where he remained for five days without food before he was discovered and taken to the hospital. He was too proud to ask for assistance, and thus deliberately chose death by starvation
